“ George shared his love of clowning for Christ with our Vacation Bible during summer about 25 years ago at St Paul's United Church of Christ, Malone. The kids loved him. I still have my face painting sticks I bought from Diane and used for many years with the kids. My heart goes out to Diane and the community. I was blessed to have know him, if only briefly.

“ My husband and I met George and Diane in the cancer center lab. I was fairly new to the journey. George and Diane offered kindness, patience, humor and hope on a day when I truly needed it. George's positivity made a difference to me as did our online connection. Godspeed George and my sincere condolences Diane.

“ George has been missed at Lodge. He was active and worked his way up to serving as Worshipful Master - an honor he deserved. I especially remember that we never heard him complain during all his years of treatments to beat cancer. He was an inspiration to us all. Once he laughed as told us of getting a bee under his netting. That is typical of how he faced life without complaining.

“ You and George were so welcoming to us when we started coming to First Presbyterian. George was a great leader for the tenor section. I think most of tenors tried to fight for a chair next to him! We loved his antics, his talent that he shared with all, and most of all his love for God, family and church.

God will be with you in this time of sorrow and so will we, in prayer.

“ I first met George when I auditioned for a dinner play he was directing at Butch's Anchor Inn, "The Odd Couple, Female Version." It was just the first of several plays we did together, and a lifelong friendship with him and his best friend/partner/ wife, Diane. George has been a friend, a shoulder to lean on, a mentor, and one of the funniest people I've ever known. The world is significantly dimmer without him.

“ George was a super cool uncle. My favorite memory of him happened when I was a kid and stayed overnight at his and Diane's house. I came downstairs to find him sitting in front of the stereo. He was blasting a song I'd never heard before (The Confessor by Joe Walsh). He was having a moment of air guitar and air drumming, having a good time. That is just one of many happy memories I have of my uncle George. So much love goes out to George's family and you all are in my prayers.
