“ Jimmy, as I called him was a tough nut that taught me a lot when I served my apprenticeship at Tower Mechanical. He had a big heart and he helped me out on more than one occasion. He always said every step that you take is three things that you can do with your hands. Keep your work close and don't waste steps. I always new where I stood with Jim, because he had an open door policy. I didn't always get a word in edgewise, but he somehow heard what needed to be said. I respected him and will miss him. I always meant to drop by and say hello and always thought I would have the chance.

I may have to pick up a bottle of crown and propose a toast to my old boss and friend.

*Through these doors walk the finest craftsman in the world!
God Bless you Jimmy.- Heres to you.*

Wow Dan...nicely said. He thought very highly of you. As we both know if he had an opinion of someone (or their work) he was never afraid to make it know. During and after the years I left Tower if he ever bought up the shop or started to reminisce about the guys he always had something nice to say about you and the time you worked together.
